To whom it may concern,

From May 11 to August 11, 2009, Jonathan Guy interned as an art director here at Bos. Over those 3 months, he proved to be a very valuable asset to the agency.

Not only did the "guy" work his ass off. He proved to us that he was more than capable of producing some quality work. In fact, he exceeded our expectations.

More than that, he was a great chap to have around. Proactive. Always willing to help out in any way. Took direction well. And got along exceptionally well with everyone.

If circumstances had afforded, we would have definitely considered Jonathan for a full-time position.

I think Jonathan would be a wonderful addition to any creative department.
